
Covenant

Mission Teams have found it helpful to use Covenants as a reminder that the SOWER Work Mission is an experience of living in a Christian community.

Mission Worker Covenant

In the scriptures we have the concept of the covenant. A covenant is a promise, an agreement between two or more parties. We ask you to be in covenant with God and the Epworth Center while you participate in a SOWER Work Camp.

By signing this covenant, I make an agreement between God, the Epworth Center, and myself. I acknowledge that I am participating in the SOWER Work Mission program experience because I want to be involved with missions and I want to grow in my relationship with God and with others.

As a SOWER participant I will have the opportunity to serve the poor. It is both a privilege and an opportunity for me to grow as a Christian disciple and to be a servant. I promise that I will be an example of Christ to others. I will not speak unkindly or use foul language. I will not have in my possession any alcohol or elicit drugs. I will also care for the facilities of the Epworth Center.

I grant and convey to the Epworth Center all right, title and interest in any and all photographic images taken by Epworth Center staff during participation in SOWER.

If I break this covenant, my family will be notified. If disciplinary action would need to be taken, and I was to be sent home, it will be at my own expense.

After you read the above Covenant, please fill out the bottom portion of this page and return it to the Epworth Center. Thank you.
